H J CASH

M&E Contractor founded in 1904 with offices in Surbiton and Blackburn. Bought out by John Laing in the late 1960’s and eventually sold to Andrews Weatherfoil Ltd.
H. J. CASH & CO. LTD.

Cash has been a well-known and respected name in mechanical and electrical engineering since 1904 when H. J. Cash founded the business. The Company has always had a high reputation for the quality of its work and, through the years, has been awarded contracts of all sizes in commercial, industrial and other fields.

As a progressive Company, Cash has grown and advanced with the industries it serves. Today, it is a highly experienced and balanced organisation — strong on all sides of its business — and backed by ample financial and technical resources. It is equipped to handle complete mechanical and electrical contracts of every size and type from design through to commissioning.

SERVICES

There are separate sections within the organisation for handling smaller projects so that clients get a service suited to their needs but without losing the benefit of the overall Cash experience.

Arrangements can be made to maintain installations for clients after commissioning. Hospitals, factories and Embassies frequently employ this service.

CASH offer a complete integrated service in mechanical and electrical engineering, and are familiar with the problems of co-ordination both in design and installation. Where more than one service is required, special attention is given to the important task of overall co-ordination.
Mechanical Division

Air-conditioning and heating contracts are undertaken in hospitals, offices, factories, multi-storey flats and other modern buildings. The Division has its own specialist design team for handling schemes from the earliest stages of a project.

Electrical Division

Cash has grown up with the electrical industry and few companies can claim as much experience in this field. Installations range from shop and office developments to complete services for industrial undertakings. Care and quality are all-important in electrical work and, because of their high reputation, Cash has been entrusted with many challenging and unusual jobs. In addition to the normal organisation for handling major contracts, there are highly mobile teams ready to give virtually a 24-hour service in England and Wales.

Plumbing Division

This Division installs all types of pipework in domestic, commercial and industrial buildings, and has experience of plastics, one-pipe plumbing and 'kit assembly' methods relevant to industrialised building systems. The Plumbing Division works in conjunction with other Divisions of the Company, and also on contracts undertaken independently.

Industrial Division

This Cash Division has been set up to handle the growing volume of industrial work in both mechanical and electrical fields. Projects in hand include industrial air conditioning, dust extraction, oil pipework, and electrical work where flameproof equipment is necessary. In most cases, H. J. Cash & Co. Ltd. designs the work undertaken. The industrial staff is supported as necessary by the staff of other Divisions, and skilled craftsmen in all trades are available. The Company has facilities for design of mechanical handling schemes and is associated with a manufacturing company within the same Group.
